

ABY'S BODY FOUND IN TANK

Had Been in Wakeman Apartments for Months—How It Got There and Its Identity Mysteries for Police to Solve.

The body of a child about three years old was found in the flushings of the bathroom at the apartment of Abraham Wakeman, a coffee broker, No. 3 East Eighty-seventh street, 10th floor. The police are mystified and Mr. Wakeman and his family have been unable to give them any assistance. Mr. Wakeman, his wife and daughter were in the country all last summer. The apartment was closed. They returned on Oct. 15 and a week later a disagreeable odor attracted their attention. The house was cleaned several times, but in vain. To-day Mr. Wakeman called in the janitor, Patrick Kelly, who traced the odor to the flush-tank and found the body wrapped in a red flannel waist. It was taken to the morgue.

ARCHITECT ENDS LIFE WITH GAS

Steinmann Opens Jets, Lies Down on Office Floor, Folds His Arms and Waits for Death—Business Was Poor.

James Steinmann, a brewery architect, was found dead today in his office on the second floor, No. 55 New street. The body was found on the floor, the arms crossed the chest and the head resting on several account books. The room was open. Mrs. Mary Miller, janitress of the building, who was attracted to Steinmann's office by the odor of gas and found him dead, was nearly overcome when she entered the room. Steinmann's home, No. 141 Bedford street, Brooklyn, Mrs. Steinmann said, has been worrying over business matters for a year past. He remained away from home, so his last night caused little worry. Steinmann came from Germany in 1890 and went to Seattle, Wash., where he made considerable money in the coal business. Then he came to New York in 1895 and up to a year ago done a good

FIRED SIX SHOTS AT A BURGLAR

House in Fashionable Brooklyn Section Entered by Man Who Is Discovered by Watchman—Wounded Youth Arrested.

Following an attempt to rob the handsome residence at No. 108 Pierpont street, in the fashionable Columbia Heights section of Brooklyn, early today, and the firing of six shots at a burglar, a young man of twenty-two, who says that he is John Costigan, and that he comes from Saugerties, N. Y., was arrested with a bullet wound in his arm. The burglar entered the house, which is being fitted up by Joseph H. Brennan, No. 17 First place, Brooklyn, the owner, and which is now vacant, by forcing open a rear dining-room window. He was heard by Francis Apes, the caretaker, who came upon him and began firing. The burglar escaped by jumping from the window, but before he was shot at six times. The police began a search in the neighborhood, and an hour later young Costigan was found in Montague street, holding his arm and suffering from the wound, which appeared fresh. At the Adams street police station the prisoner would tell nothing about himself. He denied that he had been shot or that he was the man who entered the Pierpont street house.

Our "Concave" Shoulder & "Closefitting" Collar

A Sign of the Times

Our "Concave" Shoulder & "Closefitting" Collar. THIS is an age of ideas—of improvement. It is by the introduction and perfection of new ideas that the world progresses. The "Concave" Shoulder and "Closefitting" Collar is a new idea; an idea we have worked long and patiently on to perfect. The "Concave" Shoulder is a revelation in the art of tailoring, the greatest improvement made in fifty years. It is a new and better way of making the most vital part of a coat. It is a very full, wide, shapely shoulder. It is a shoulder cut with a slightly concave line and higher and broader than the ordinary shoulder. It will set on one person as well as another. There is no superfluous wadding to stretch and sag and lose its shape. The lines of the "Concave" Shoulder are there to stay, because they are modelled and tailored right into the garment. All our Spring suits and overcoats are made with our "Concave" Shoulder and "Closefitting" Collar.
